Definition

A new appointment is the initial employment of an individual to a position or the reemployment of an individual who is either not eligible for reinstatement or, at the agency's option, is not offered reinstatement.

Advisory Notes:

- (1) Upon reemployment, the appointment type may be determined as a new appointment; however, if reemployment is within one year, the Reinstatement Policy must be followed for establishing the salary.
 - (2) Employees transferring from a career-banded classification to a graded classification should be treated as a Grade-Band Transfer action and the salary established using the New Appointments Policy

Types of Appointments

An employee entering into State service shall be given one of the following types of appointments: (See Probationary/Trainee/Permanent Appointment and Career Status Policy in previous Section for discussion of requirements.)

Type of Appointment	Condition
Probationary	unless the employee is eligible for and the agency chooses to reinstate with a permanent appointment
Trainee	if the employee does not meet the full requirements for the position
Permanent	if the employee previously had a permanent appointment and the agency chooses to reinstate with a permanent appointment

Time-limited	if to a time-limited permanent position or to fill a position vacant by leave without pay
Temporary	if for a specified period not to exceed twelve months
Intermittent	if needed only for intermittent periods of time and will not exceed a total of nine months during any continuous 12-month period

Qualifications

The employee must possess at least the minimum recruitment standards, or their equivalent, as set forth in the class specification. Exception: See Trainee Appointment in this Section.

Minimum Rate or Special Minimum Rate

The minimum rate of pay for a class shall normally be paid a qualified new employee. Trainee rates are explained under Trainee Appointment.

When a special minimum rate (SMR) has been authorized, that rate may be paid a qualified new employee if the agency has made a decision to use the new rate.

Above the Minimum or Special Minimum Rate

A salary above the minimum rate or SMR may be paid at the initial appointment or at the time the appointment is made permanent, but not to exceed the maximum salary published in the vacancy announcement, when:

- warranted by operational needs or an equal pay justification and
- the applicant possesses exceptional qualifications above the minimum recruitment standards. The additional experience and training must be in the same or closely related area to that stated as acceptable in the class specification.

As a guide, up to 5% above the minimum rate or SMR may be considered for each qualifying year of directly related experience or education above the minimum recruitment standards.

Note: If the salary requested is above the minimum or the SMR, the Forms PD-105 must include a statement of reasons and justification for the rate that will be paid.

Appointments above the minimum rate or SMR shall be avoided if salary inequities will be created. This shall be considered carefully in order to avoid present or future inequities.

Probationary Increase

When an employee is given a permanent or time-limited permanent appointment after successful completion of the probationary period, the employee's salary may be increased by up to 5% or to a higher rate if conditions justify.

Increases for Salaries below an Authorized Special Minimum Rate

If an agency has implemented a (SMR), but hires an employee at a salary below the authorized SMR because the lower salary is sufficient to attract applicants but not sufficient to retain the employee once experience is gained, an adjustment up to the SMR may be made during or at the end of the probationary period or at such time as performance indicates that it is justified.

Part-time Salary Rates

Employees with permanent part-time appointments shall be paid a proportionate annual rate.

Temporary Salary Rates

The minimum rate shall normally be paid temporary employees. However, a lower rate may be set if reasons are acceptable to the Office of State Human Resources. Temporary employees shall be paid hourly rates.

Salary Exceptions

Only with the prior approval of the Human Resources Director and in well-documented cases which involve circumstances such as severe labor market conditions or extraordinary qualifications will salaries be considered which exceed the limits of this policy.

Effective Date

A new employee may begin work on any scheduled workday in a pay period. When the first day of a pay period falls on a non-workday and the employee begins work on the first workday of a pay period, the date to begin work will be shown as the first of the pay period.

The effective date for change to a permanent or time-limited permanent appointment shall be the date that it is determined that the employee meets acceptable performance standards, but not less than three months from the date of employment. (See Probationary/Trainee/Permanent Appointment and Career Status Policy in previous Section for length of probationary period.)

TRAINEE APPOINTMENTS

Purpose

Classifications often require knowledge or skills not available from the labor market or which cannot be learned in a short period. To accommodate this and where appropriate, a trainee progression is established to provide a uniform guide for equitable employment and compensation of trainees. A trainee appointment may be made to work against a classified position.

Trainee Progression

The trainee progression:

- defines the recruitment standards, basic skills and related knowledge needed;
- specifies a duration which approximates the normal time for training needed for applicants with potential to meet the full job requirements; and
- provides competitive salary progression rates that are spread over the training period.

Trainee Appointment Salary

The salary for a new appointment must be at the specified minimum rate of the trainee range unless the employee possesses sufficient additional education or experience to qualify for a higher rate.

Trainee Salary Increases

During a trainee appointment, the following shall occur:

- An evaluation of the individual's performance and progress on the job shall be made at frequent intervals.
- Increases are provided at specific intervals; however, increases are not automatic and are not necessarily limited to the full elapse of specified intervals.
- Salary adjustments may be either advanced or delayed depending upon the progress of the employee. If salary adjustments have been advanced:
 - ◇ normally, the trainee's salary will not be adjusted to the minimum rate of the range for the regular classification until the employee meets all education and experience requirements for the regular class (experience of part-time employees must be prorated); however,
 - ◇ if verified by individual job audit, the salary can be moved to the regular class rate when job performance demonstrates achievement of duties, knowledge, and skills at the level of the class.
- After successful completion of the trainee period, the salary shall be increased to the minimum (or SMR) of the range for the regular classification.

Advisory Note: The above applies when appointments are made to officially recognized trainee progressions. The Office of State Human Resources also works with agencies to establish "unofficial" trainees and salary progressions when there is not an established trainee classification.
